PROCEEDINGS AGAINST JAY GOULD AND HAMIL TON HARRIS FOR CONTEMPT-MR. HARRIS EXONÉBATED-DECISION IN THE CASES-MR. GOULD AND THE COURT OFFICER SUS-

In re the Habeas Corpus of Jay Gould .- Yeserday being the return day of the order to show cause against Mr. Gould and Mr. Harris, issued on Saturday,

Mr. Vanderpoel, as amicus curia, called the attention of the Court to the order. Neither Mr. Gould nor Mr. Harris was present, but he understood that their affidavits were here.

Mr. Burrill then read the affidavite. The following is

Mr. Gould's statement:

City and County of New-York, ss.: Jay Gould, the above-named relative, being sworn, eave:

Aret: I have read a copy of an affidavit made in this proceeding by han Tremain and E: W. Peckham, jr., also make all its as to what occurred in the interview of Olive that they would be far more satisfactory if Mr. Gould were himself here. Mr. Vanderpoel called the attention of the Court to the were himself here.

Mr. Vanderpoel called the attention of the Court to the fact that there was not the slightest attempt to excuse his absence and that as to the tender of the bond to Mr. Oriver it was nothing, for he could no more receive it than any stranger in the streets.

Mr. Dudley Field said that Mr. Shearman, who had just come from Albany, where he had been with Mr. Gould on Monday, was in Court and could testify to the state of Mr. Gould's health.

Mr. Shearman said that he had been with Mr. Gould during the greater part of Monday, and that as far as he could judge Mr. Gould was in too feeble health to travel. There had been during the day in his room the persons whose affidavits were given, and perhaps three others. He had enteavored to find Mr. Gould's physican to procure his affidavit, but was unable to do so before the time arrived for his Shearman's return.

Mr. Burrill then, to show the good faith in which they were acting, said that they had drafted the condition of a bond to be signed (as they had thought it proper the defendent himself should execute it), by Mr. Gould. That this condition had been given to Mr. Tremain's clerk who had supposed the condition to be the whole paper, and thus defective it had been executed by Mr. Gould. They only offered it to show his perfect good faith in the matter.

The Court thought that, on the affidavits, no attempt

The Court thought that, on the affidavits, no attempt The Court thought that, on the affidavits, no attempt to commit a criminal contempt was shown, and, so far as Mr. Harris was concerned, he thought it his due to discharge the order to show cause at once. He appeared to have acted from perfectly proper motives, based on the statements of his client. He had at once, in the most proper manner, submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the Court, though there was some doubt as to that jurisdiction. As to Mr. Gould, the question of his good faith would be better determined when he should be before the Court, which should be as soon as his health would permit. He would say that, with regard the Court officer, the General Term had had the matter before them, and had allowed him to submit any written statement he might desire by Thursday. On that day, or on Friday, they would probably announce their decision on his case. Perhaps the proceedings in the Gould case had better stand over till then.

stand over till then.

Mr. Burrill suggested Saturday as more convenient.
Orders were then entered discharging the order to show active against Mr. Harris, and adjourning the proceedings in the Gould matter till Saturday.

THE EXAMINATION IN THE "CONTEMPT" CASES CONTINUED-THE RIGHTS OF COUNSEL AND

CLIENT DISCUSSED. The examination in the case of The People. &c., agt. J. C. Mr. Clarke said the principle referred to is not applie Mr. Clarke said the principle referred to is not applicable to a matter of this description, and that the law gives no protection to any of the parties engaged in a scheme for the violation of an injunction. He insisted that the witness preceed with the answer.

The Referce said that if he had the power so to do he would not hesitate to decide; but, under the circumstances, if action on this nice question was to be had, application must be made to the Court.

After argument Mr. Clarke medified his question by asking the witness to confine himself to statements made by Mr. Drew, Mr. Goesbeck, and himself, omitting whatever Mr. Field may have said.

assing the wife, Goesbeck, and himself, omitting whatever Mr. Field may have said.

Jingg J. R. Porter thought that the preceedings so far as this witness is concerned should be suspended until the Referee could take the ruling of the Court. The question involved here was an important one, and it should be decided before the witness was allowed to proceed.

The matter was further discussed, when the witness asked if he had the privilege of saying that under the circumstances he ought not ton aswer the question as to what took place at the interview. The referee replied that he had, and the witness then said that he preferred not to answer until a decision had been made by the set that he should shirt the desirable to accept that he should be at Chambers to-day, at 2 o'clock p. m. The further examination of the witness was then suspended.

James M. Ellis was the next witness. He testified that he was a partner in the firm of William Heath & Co., money brokers of this city; was in the city in March, 1888; declined to answer whether he was employed by the Eric Railway Company, on or about the 6th, 7th, or 7th of March last, to sell Eric Railway stock. Q. Did you about that time sell any railway stock on account of the Eric Railway Company! Objected to, unless confined to Mr. Davis.] A. I decline to answer. Q. Did your firm receive, on or about the 4th of March, any certileates of stock in the Eric Railway Company, bearing date March 7, 1868; if so, state what number you so received, and from whom you received them! The witness declined to answer. The examination was then adjourned till 10 a. m., to-day.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE MR. REDFIELD, REFEREE—MR. CHARLES A. RAPALLO EXAMINED.

ney-General and others for the motion in Cortlandville, was proceeded with yesterday.

Charles A. Rapallo was examined by Mr. Dudley Field,

Q. How did it happen that instead of applying to Judge Cardozo, in Chambers, you applied for the injunction to Judge Barnard, at his residence ! A. Purely as a matter of personal convenience to myself, and to avoid the necessity of going into the crowd that always collects where ex parte business is going on.

Q. When you made the application did you explain the matter to the Judge by reading the papers to him, or letting him read them ! A. I made the application in the customary form, by stating to him the substance of the contents of the papers I had with me.

Q. Did he read any of the papers! A. I cannot say Q. Did he read any of the papers! A. I cannot say how thoroughly he read them. He had them before him, and had opportunity to read them. It is not customary to thoroughly peruse long documents, of which large portions are formal. Q. Did he read a single page! A. I cannot myself specify any portions of the papers which he read. Q. Can you say that he read a word! A. I do not doubt that he did. Q. Do you know that he did? A. He must have done so; he looked at them; but I have no doubt he relied mainly on my statement of the contents, as many of the judges of the courts are in the habit of doing in such cases. Q. Did he read the injunction which he signed! A. I believe so; he had it in his hand. Q. Have you found the injunction since your last examination! If so, produce it. A. I was not subpensed to produce papers here to-day, and I have not got it here with me. Q. How long were you with the Judge! A. I cannot state exactly how long I was with him; somewhere from half an hour to an hour. Q. Was any one with him beside yourself! A. No one, as far as I remember, except a servant, who was in and out of the room. Q. Why was that injunction not served! A. I decline to answer questions touching my professional intercourse with my clients, and I could not answer that question without doing so. Q. When was the present Eric litigation began! A. I cannot answer your question in the form you put it; it is exceedingly difficult to say when the present sitigation commenced. Q. How long was Mr. Work's present stit in preparation before it was commenced? A. Not more than three days. Q. When commenced was he acting in concert with any other person or persons! A. Your question, I think, requires the disclosure of facts obtained in purely professional capacity. Q. Do you decline to answer! A. I do not feel that I am at liberty to answer. Q. Who obtained the injunction in that case! A. I obtained it. Q. Where! A. At Judge Barnard's residence, where, as! I said, I went to avoid the disagreeable duty of coing through the crowd at the how thoroughly he read them. He had them before him, and had opportunity to read them.

The complimentary benefit tendered to Max Maretzek last might, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, drew together a large and fashionable audience. Several eminent artists appeared, among whom were Madame Parepa-Rosa, Miss Hauck, Madame Testa, Signors Pau-cant, Ronconi, Bellini, &c. The performances opened cant, Roncom. Beilini, &c. The performances opened with the overture to "William Tell;" after which the Grand Scena and duet from "Les Huguenots" were given. Petrella's comic opera. "The Carnival of Venice." was performed in its entirety. The fourth act of "Il Trovatore" concluded the entertainment, in which the duet, "Ah che la Morié," rendered by Madiame Parepa and Signor Pancani, received the honor of an encore. The performances did not terminate until a late hour. We were gratified to perceive that the wretchedness of the weather neither impaired the enthusiasm nor seriously diminished the numbers of the audience; and we doubt not that Mr. Maretzek reaped from the entertainment both the gratification and the profit which he abundantly deserves.

TO CORRESPONDENTS. READERS.-The President can resign. The Constitution makes express provision for the contingency of his doing so (Art. II., § 1). THE WOMEN'S PRISON ASSOCIATION-THE ISAAC T. HOPPER HOME.

This Association, whose "Home" is at No. 191 Tenth-ave., has submitted its Twenty-third Annual Report. The object of this Association is two fold : First; The improvement of the condition of prisoners, whether detained for trial as witnesses or finally convicted. Secondly: The support and encouragement of reformed Secondly: The support and encouragement of reformed convicts after their discharge by affording them an opportunity of obtaining an honest livelihood and sustaining them in their efforts to reform. The report sets forth many facts at once striking and interesting. The statistics printed below are a better argument for the encouragement of the Association than any appeal could be; for if one considers what these figures imply—a hand stretched out, a foothold offered to so many tempted and despairing souls to whom the downward path is easy and the upward path difficult—they are no longer mere numbers, items in a report, but so many rescaed women who appeal to us, in the very warmth of their own, gratitude, for thousands of other wretched ches who need like assitance.

encouragement to us in the labor which she shared during her life.

In presenting the twenty-third annual report of the Women's Prison Association of New-York, and Isaac T. Hopper Home, which Association feel in the increased field and fruits of their labor cause for renewed courage and exertion. On examination of the report for this year we find that 100 more women have been admitted to the shelter of the Home during this year than during either of the preceding ones. The fact that 274 out of 394 were sent to service, is a fact that causes the Association to feel a conscious pride.

SCHISM IN A CHURCH-THE HOUSE GARRISONED

The bitter fend that has long been raging be-The bitter fend that has long been raging Detween Rev. Dr. Scott, Pastor of the Church of the Redemption, in Fourteenth-st., and its senior Warden, Mr. F. W. Welchman, came to a head on Sunday last. Mr. Welchman and his supporters among the congregation had been long anxious for the Pastor's removal, and on Sunday evening, after divine service, they took the first step toward accomplishing their object by laying in an ample toward accomplishing their object by laying in an ample toward accomplishing their object by laying in an ample of the supply of provisions, locking and barring the doors of the edifice, and establishing themselves therein as a garrison. This belilcose attitude had been assumed in order to prevent the election of a new vestry, which might have resulted in the triumph of Dr. Scott's friends and the ousting of the senior Warden from office. Bishop Potter moreover seemed to favor the mutineers, for headdressed a letter to Mr. Welchman, in which he enjoined that gentleman to procure the postponament of the Easter election, and also wrote to Dr. Scott, informing him that no such election would be valid. Superintendent Kennedy, on learning the purport of the Eishop's letter to the Senior Warden, ordered Capt. Caffrey of the Fifteenth Precinct to place a sufficient force of police in the church for the protection of the Welchman party and the preservation of Sergeant Miller, were detailed for the service, and have been on duty in the church since Monday morning. Nor was it an unnecessary precaution, for yesterday morning nore than 300 members of the congregation, evidently friends of the pastor, assembled in front of the church to elect a new vestry, and had it not been for the presence of the police, the ecclesiastical garrison would have been roughly handled. Up to midnight, however, they were still in possession, with no disposition to compromise. But the Scott party are equally obstinate, and mean to seek redress in the Supreme Court. tween Rev.
